MeetingOne® Announces Online Account Management (OAM)

DENVER – MeetingOne is making it much easier for customers to provision and manage their services with a host of features and capabilities now available in our OAM portal.

Administrators can manage user accounts and AudioOne rooms across the business or enterprise to help maintain control of service access, provisioning, and ultimately your costs.

Users now have MeetingOne account and room information right at their fingertips with the ability to print a new wallet card for convenient access to your meeting information when you're on the go.

Review and manage your room settings like doorbell, security access options, and much more, quickly and easily from the OAM Settings tab.

Recordings are conveniently available for easy access and download at no extra charge and no additional or hidden fees! Need to review a call that took place last week to see who was on it? No problem! The OAM Reports tab allows you to review your call history and drill down into each call detail in a simple concise view. You can also export your report data to a spreadsheet or PDF for further data management or distribution.

OAM gives you the tools to secure and better organize your meetings with Directory services. With Directory services you can add Individual Access Codes for individual callers that may be validated for entry into your call. With the flexible options of your Directory, you may control access and caller identification within your call to varying degrees. It's easy to set up and enable or disable your Directory service meeting to meeting.

MeetingOne's Online Account Management portal is your one stop shop for meeting management. Check it out today if you're already a customer, or get setup with an account or free trial with MeetingOne!
